MEET THE TEAM

each trainer has been handpicked for their years of experience in teaching as well as their dedication to learning and sharing multiple styles of asana, breath work, meditation and philosophy.

Aine Kerrigan

Áine teaches yoga with an emphasis on safety and alignment, offering students a safe and supportive environment to explore their personal yoga practice while moving mindfully.

First introduced to yoga in 2005, Áine delved into all aspects of the practice and various lineages eventually deciding she needed to leave her corporate job and share what she was learning with others.

Having trained to teach Hatha, Jivamukti and Katonah Yoga with internationally renowned teachers, Aine weaves asana with more esoteric intentions, theories and philosophies set to the backdrop of interesting yet perfectly curated playlists.

Manasi Sridhar

Born and raised in India, Manasi's Yoga journey has been a part of her life at various levels. Her principles of life are very much in line with the Yoga Philosophy.

Yoga Philosophy has always been a part of Manasi's life and she lives to share it in the most authentic way to her students as it must be a constant reminder to us that Yoga is Beyond Asana and a way of living.

As a mum of 2, the Ireland chapter in her life has been a hard start but she has found her feet and her community here and would always love to connect heart to heart because - this is my why :)

Dan Morgan

Dan Morgan is an international E-200 RYT Yoga, meditation and breathwork teacher and Teacher Trainer, YACEP, Transformational Coach and Advanced Clinical Massage Therapist. For almost a decade, Dan has had the pleasure of teaching practitioners of all levels all around the world. He has had the pleasure of teaching trainings, workshops and retreats in over 10 countries globally. Dan's passion is to inspire the masses to discover a healthy balance in the way that they each live their lives - to live a life that truly resonates with their authentic selves. Founded with a belief that the yoga practice doesn't start and stop on the mat, Dan leads classes that encourage a deeper individual exploration, and that inspire continued self awareness, understanding and growth in all aspects of life.

With a constantly evolving personal practice, taking inspiration from both traditional and modern teachings, his classes provide a balance of strength and mobility, exploring the practice in a nuanced way to help practitioners achieve the breakthroughs in their own personal practice and self understanding. With the ethos 'teach people, not postures' and a belief that every body is unique - he leads a practice that goes beyond the postures. Having always used a physical practice as a gateway to explore the yoga practice as a deeper way of being, Dan teaches using yoga asana, breathwork and meditation as a way to ground into the present moment, and then as a tool to move deeper into self understanding, consciousness & awareness.

Mignon vdl

Intuition is power - But how do we tap into this?

In life we often fall into a rut of not trusting our own minds and often even our bodies and hearts.

She first fell in love with movement many years ago where she grew up in South Africa. After completing her first training in Mozambique she felt it helped her find a deeper connection to herself and her life. She went on to travel India for a few months by herself to further understand the tradition and roots of this practice. She is a 1000hr + accredited yoga, breath work & meditation teacher.

She has travelled around the world to learn and teach. She carefully curates each class bringing in elements of all her favourite styles (26x2, rocket yoga, yin yoga) creating a niche vinyasa class focusing on mobility, mindfulness & energetics.

Mignon loves to share the combination of movement, breath and meditation practices as it contributed to helping her find combat tactics assisting with her fibromyalgia, depression & anxiety. She doesn't take on the typical 'teaching' at you method but rather a sharing method - she believes everyone has something to share. She loves creating community and looks forward meeting everyone.

Jocelyn Brown

Jocelyn started practicing yoga in her home country Canada almost 15 years ago as a way to destress. Through her practice she came to appreciate the benefits of yoga for not only physical, but mental health. The connection of body-mind-and breath that yoga brings continues to be a driving force not only in her teaching, but throughout her daily life.

Teaching for over 10 years she has 200hrs in Sivananda and Baptiste Power Flow, as well as advanced trainings in assisting and sequencing from Amy Ippoliti and 50hr in Budokon Yoga training.

Jocelyn has been fortunate enough to be able to share her practice and teachings around the globe from Canada to Ireland over to Italy, and now back to Dublin.

She loves to teach a dynamic vinyasa style class, connecting movement and breath, allowing students to be playful and really challenge themselves while being accessible to all.

Silvio Barlette

Silvio is a yoga teacher from Brazil but has been calling Dublin his home for the last 16 years. His approach to life is much like his approach to yoga – full of curiosity, gentleness, and playfulness.

2012 was the beginning of his journey into a deeper understanding of himself, and keen to discover how to direct this energy flow in his body, he embarked on his spiritual training first through Japa Meditation here in Ireland and later in Goa, India where he completed his 200hr Yoga teacher training in 2018, and returning again in 2019 to Rishikesh to complete 100 hours of Yin, breathwork and Meditation training. He continues to explore his relationship with yoga even further, and recently completed 240 hours of Yoga and Holistic

Therapy studies at Sallynoggin College here in Dublin. Silvio sees yoga as a gateway to the self. his teaching style is non-judgemental and focused on helping to foster the student's individual and unique relationship with yoga and their own bodies. He uses the fluidity of vinyasa to help awaken and inspire this connection to ourselves and to the world around us.

Our functional anatomy classes ensure an understanding of the key muscles and bones involved in asana practice and their associated health benefits and contraindications.

Substantial emphasis is placed on analytic training, muscular and skeletal anatomy, individual physical limitations and differences
